

COVID RESTRICTIONS UPDATE

You would have heard by now, of the easing of some restrictions in Melbourne effective from midnight tonight.

I was hopeful that some of our smaller groups would be able to return to classes with the easing of restrictions in Melbourne from midnight tonight. Unfortunately, Monash Community facilities remain unavailable, against the condition for use being capped at a capacity limit of 10 applying to the venue, not to the group.

All our in-person classes will remain suspended for now; any classes already online are continuing without interruptions.

Vicki, our tutor coordinator, is working directly with the tutors to keep them informed as we work through with the restrictions and changes. Some tutors are in the process of arranging to hold classes online via Zoom.

I will communicate with you again, hopefully next week but definitely just as soon as the situation changes and facilities become available again. I understand this period of uncertainty is unsettling, but let's all do our bit to keep safe; as they say, "this too shall pass".

In the meantime, enjoy the long weekend. Be well.

Ann Findlay, President
